What are some sources that you would be interested in scraping from?

To be completely honest, I think if there was a way to efficiently scrap Reddit, it would be pretty sick. Although I highly doubt that there would be any organization there. I like the idea of being able to go onto online forums to derive data. I really enjoyed the way we scrapped data from Wikipedia, but it was also very confusing at times. Government institutions and world bank data would be pretty fun as well!
